

ENGAGE YOUR EMPLOYEES TO HELP PROTECT YOUR NETWORK

With Integrated Systems Phishing Assessment Program

What is Proposed

A three-month minimum phishing assessment consisting of at least one "cast", or email, per week. This will allow the system to send out emails periodically, so users will receive them on different days and at various times. The benefit of this is that users will experience multiple phishing encounters per month with varying difficulties and topics. Other than the main contact that we coordinate this with, no one will be aware of these emails being sent out. This will let us gather actual results, allowing us to set goals moving forward to reduce the number of clicks. If requested, results of the emails can be forwarded to our contact as soon as each week is over, or a report will be compiled at the end of the month and sent out. Nearing the end of the simulation, computer-based training (CBT) and an accompanying test to verify the users understanding is recommended. Our CBT is a highly detailed education program that instills best practices for managing email along with real world examples in order to educate the user.

The Results

A detailed results report is offered. We are capable of narrowing it down to the exact user who has clicked the link within the email, replied to the email, entered in credentials to a fake form, and more. Following the completion of the final cast, training that we offer is highly recommended. Not only does this inform those who fell victim to the phishing emails, but it provides important and critical information for all. The best defense against cyber-criminals is education. Simulations such as this can break bad habits and create best practices in order to engage your employees in cyber security.
